

EXTRA

ALL THE LATEST NEWS

ANDREWS MUST GO

Assemblyman Fish Introduces a Resolution to That Effect.

It Calls for Prompt Action from the Capitol Trustees.

The Ceiling Superintendent Finds No Ardent Supporters in the House.

ALBANY, Feb. 19.—In the Assembly this morning, Mr. Hamilton Fish introduced a resolution, which, after reciting that there had been great mismanagement in the construction of the ceiling, went on as follows: "It is resolved, That the attention of the Trustees of the Capitol, consisting of the Governor, the Lieutenant-Governor and the Speaker, be hereby respectfully called to the report of the Committee of Experts, and said trustees be requested to expend the amount of $200,000, now in the hands of the State, in the improvement of the ceiling of the Capitol, and to report thereon at the next session of the Legislature." Mr. Sheehan said he was in favor of the resolution. He hoped that Supt. Andrews would be suspended.

He was not sure whether the Capitol Commissioners could remove Mr. Andrews without any further action but if they could he certainly would not oppose a motion calling upon them to do so.

It was evident that the resolution would come a debate of some time, and so, under the rules, it went over until to-morrow.

There is now no doubt of its passage, if, indeed, by that time the Commissioners have not already removed Mr. Andrews or he has not joined the American colony in Canada.

DE LANCEY NICOLL REFUSES.

HE WILL HAVE NO MORE TO DO WITH THE MARKET-STAND INQUIRY.

Mr. Nicoll this afternoon absolutely refused to continue as counsel in the market investigation.

His letter to the Corporation Counsel is to the effect that it is useless to proceed further with the investigation, as the witnesses have been intimidated by the Corporation.

Under the circumstances, he says that he does not feel that he ought to accept a retainer from the city to conduct a fruitless investigation.

His letter to the Corporation Counsel is to the effect that it is useless to proceed further with the investigation, as the witnesses have been intimidated by the Corporation.

Under the circumstances, he says that he does not feel that he ought to accept a retainer from the city to conduct a fruitless investigation.

His letter to the Corporation Counsel is to the effect that it is useless to proceed further with the investigation, as the witnesses have been intimidated by the Corporation.

WILSON S. WOLF IS DEAD.

THE CROMWELLIAN BOARD OF ALDERMEN LONES ITS PRESIDENT.

The Wolf Board of Aldermen, which annually makes solemn claim to be the veritable City Fathers of New York, suffers to-day a sudden and probably fatal blow.

Wilson S. Wolf, the venerable President of the Cromwellian Board and the one who put most of the members in the fight in behalf of the body, died last evening of apoplexy at his home, 10 West Eleventh street.

Mr. Wolf was a lawyer doing a busy practice, and was especially active in the Jefferson Market Court.

He was about sixty years of age, tall, gaunt and gray-haired. He was a man of a very aggressive figure in New York City politics.

OBRIEN SCORNED A DEFENSE.

Sentenced to Six Months Further Imprisonment.

(SPECIAL CABLE TO THE EVENING WORLD.) DUBLIN, Feb. 19.—The case of William O'Brien, M. P., was called at Tralee to-day. Mr. O'Brien refused to allow his counsel, Mr. Healy, to apologize for the language the latter had used to Col. Turner yesterday.

Mr. O'Brien also refused to make any further defense regarding the charges brought against him under the Crimes Act.

He was thereupon sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

CHAMPION STANLEY IN LUCK.

He Cycled Himself into a Gold Medal and Diamond Earrings.

Most of the girls engaged in the recent bicycle race will leave for their homes to-day, but Miss Katie Stanley will stay until the latter part of the week.

She will get a gold medal from Richard K. Fox for her victory and her record-breaking, and she has already received a $150 pair of diamond earrings from Manager Billy O'Brien.

BEATEN TO DEATH.

Brutal Murder of a Woman in a Tenement-House.

Her Drunken Husband Locked Up by the Police.

The Victim Found Dead in Her Room This Morning.

Bernard McLoughlin, half drunk and stupid, is locked in a cell at the West Thirty-seventh street police station.

His wife, Mary Ann McLoughlin, lies dead on a cot in a room on the ground floor of a rickety old tenement back of the block 521 West Twenty-eighth street.

Blood was oozing from eyes, ears and mouth, and the face is horribly disfigured by bruises and cuts.

The body is also bruised and cut in many places.

Bernard and his wife had a caller yesterday in the person of Mary Martin, a weather-beaten woman of about their own age—forty years old.

At 5 o'clock Mrs. Rose Cunningham, who lives on the floor above, heard the trio quarrelling, and then she saw Mrs. McLoughlin thrust out into the hall. The door was locked in her face, and then she was admitted to her own room.

A little later there was another row, and then all was still till 10 o'clock this morning, when Bernard knocked at Mrs. Cunningham's door to tell her that his wife was dead.

Mrs. Cunningham reported the case at the police station, and Roundman Beesley was despatched to the scene. He arrested McLoughlin.

McLoughlin was too drunk to be intelligible. He said he thought had five children, all fourteen years old, and that they lived with them to do so.

Mary Ann, he said, died about 6 o'clock this morning. They had been on a three days' spree, but had had no quarrel. He is a "longshore coal-heaver."

The police are looking for Mary Martin. She is said to have left the scene of death this morning.

TRAINS COLLIDED END ON.

But There Were No Fatalities in that Canadian Smash-Up.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.) MONTREAL, Feb. 19.—A despatch just received from St. Hyacinthe says that the story of a train going through Beloit Bridge is untrue.

The facts are that at 7 o'clock last night the express train from Point Levis and Quebec, due there at 6.50, and the local train from Montreal collided, and on. The trains were not going very fast.

L. N. Lusier, a St. Hyacinthe passenger on the local train, was slightly injured, and another party on the express, whose name is not known, was severely injured. He is yet unconscious.

The two engineers and firemen saw that a collision was inevitable, so they jumped before the locomotives came together and escaped injury. Both engines and tenders were completely demolished, and the baggage car was badly damaged.

The baggage train was pushed in upon itself as it was an accident.

The baggage train was standing at the door of the car when the accident occurred, and was thrown off the train. His escape from death was miraculous.

WHO WROTE THE LETTERS AND ARTICLES?

More Than One Believed to Have Had a Hand in the Work.

(BY CABLE TO THE PRESS NEWS ASSOCIATION.) LONDON, Feb. 19.—In the Parnell Commission to-day Mr. Finch-Hatton was summoned before the Court for contempt.

The cross-examination of Mr. Macdonald, manager of the Times, was continued. Many inconsistencies in his testimony were brought out, seriously weakening the Times' case.

The witness was asked to give the names of the persons who wrote the articles on "Parnell and Crime," as many are now said to have had a hand in the work.

He declined to give up the names of contributors to the paper. It was contrary to the policy of the Times to make public the names of its writers.

Judge Hannen said that nevertheless the names must be given. The private policy of a newspaper could not prevail against the law of the land.

Houston, who obtained the Parnell letters from Pigott, asserts that two of them came from Mr. Mallett. They were found among her husband's papers.

ALLEGED EGAN LETTERS, NOW.

Le Caron to Be Relieved by Another Sensational "Times" Witness.

(SPECIAL CABLE TO THE EVENING WORLD.) LONDON, Feb. 19.—The Times prints to-day fac-similes of several alleged Egan letters which are to come before the Parnell Commission.

Vague rumors are afloat that another witness will be brought forward in behalf of the Times whose revelations will eclipse those of Le Caron. Naturally there is no limit to the sensations which may be made in the witness-box on this subject.

PHILADELPHIA'S BLAZE.

A Big Fire in Progress in the Quaker City.

Some Very Narrow Escapes from the Flames.

The Loss Will Probably Amount to a Million and May Exceed It.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.) PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 19.—A tremendous conflagration broke out in the business centre of the city before 10 o'clock this morning. It is now raging furiously.

The flames were first discovered in the wholesale tailors' trimmings establishment of Rudolph Blankenburg, the well-known political reformer, No. 13 Bank street.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but an explosion followed immediately after the discovery of the flames.

The building was a solid six-story structure and extended from Bank to Strawberry street, two small but business thoroughfares between Chestnut and Market and Second and Third streets.

An instant after the explosion, which occurred in the basement, the whole building was a roaring mass of fire, extending to the roof and balling the firemen in their work.

Both streets are built up with large commercial houses, and each is stored with valuable goods.

About fifteen minutes after the breaking out of the fire the flames had spread to the opposite side of Strawberry street.

The big linen and white-goods houses of Donald & Co. and of M. J. Kelly had taken fire.

Immediately the firemen turned their attention to this portion of the conflagration. After a hard fight they got the fire here under control.

The buildings, however, were badly burned, and the goods were almost wholly destroyed.

Meanwhile the flames were making ravages on Bank street.

On Second street the roof of No. 29, occupied by Lewis S. Hall, dry goods, caught, and the building and stock were ruined.

The big instalment house of Philip J. Walsh, adjoining the latter on the south, was also badly damaged, his greatest loss being caused by water.

He places his damage alone at $25,000. The loss of this time is estimated at a million of dollars.

Mayor Filler and Director of Public Safety Stockley went to the scene and personally supervised the movements of the firemen and police.

A narrow escape from death was made by three men who were employed in Blankenburg's. They had become caught in the building while trying to effect their escape.

They managed to get on to the fire-escape from a fifth-story window. On reaching there they found that there were no ladders to the platform on which they were, and they were compelled to remain while the flames and particularly the smoke curled around them. One was about to jump when the Hayes ladder went up and the men managed to get off.

UNCLE SAM INTERFERES.

AND BRINGS THE CONSERVA BACK TO A UNITED STATES PORT.

The Conserva, the steel-plated vessel which was seized last night off Gravesend, L. I., for an alleged violation of the United States neutrality laws, was brought up the bay and landed at the Atlantic dock, Brooklyn, at 11 o'clock this morning.

The seizure was made on complaint of the Marquis de Chambrun, counsel for the Haytian Government, who charged that the vessel was intended for use against the existing Government of Hayti, and that the libellers had good reason to believe that she then had arms and ammunition aboard intended for the use of the insurgents.

The Conserva, formerly known as the Madrid, cleared for San Juan Saturday. Minister Preston protested against allowing her to go, but Consul Julia, of the Dominican Republic, insisted that the Conserva was going to the defense of his country.

On Sunday morning the Conserva returned to Sandy Hook, and an EVENING WORLD reporter learned this morning that she had sprung a leak and that it was all the crew could do to keep her from filling.

After the vessel arrived at the dock this morning acting Capt. Crocker was taken up to United States Marshal Stoddard's office, and the hearing was subsequently set down for to-morrow.

The crew was much excited and declared they were entitled to full pay for the trip.

Gen. Courtenay and Stephen Charles Preston, both prominently identified with the Legation faction in Hayti, have been missing since Friday.

When young Preston's father, the Haytian Minister, was asked as to his son's whereabouts this morning he evaded the question, but when cornered he threw up his hands in a dramatic manner he said: "His country needs him, and my son has gone to fight in its cause."

DENMARK AMONG THE BROKERS.

The Prize Mule Visits the Menagerie at the Stock Exchange.

A very celebrated mule was added to the bulls and bears in the New York Stock Exchange menagerie for a few moments this afternoon.

The visiting animal was Denmark, won by Mr. J. C. Bucks at the St. Valentine's Market Fair in Fifth avenue.

RESTORED!

Tina Weiss Back in the Arms of Her Joyful Mother.

"THE EVENING WORLD" PROMISED IT.

Home Again After a Separation of Nearly a Year and a Half.

Here is a Confession of the Unjustness of the Children's Law.

And a Powerful Plea for the Amendment Offered by "The Evening World."

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.) PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 19.—A tremendous conflagration broke out in the business centre of the city before 10 o'clock this morning. It is now raging furiously.

The flames were first discovered in the wholesale tailors' trimmings establishment of Rudolph Blankenburg, the well-known political reformer, No. 13 Bank street.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but an explosion followed immediately after the discovery of the flames.

The building was a solid six-story structure and extended from Bank to Strawberry street, two small but business thoroughfares between Chestnut and Market and Second and Third streets.

An instant after the explosion, which occurred in the basement, the whole building was a roaring mass of fire, extending to the roof and balling the firemen in their work.

Both streets are built up with large commercial houses, and each is stored with valuable goods.

About fifteen minutes after the breaking out of the fire the flames had spread to the opposite side of Strawberry street.

The big linen and white-goods houses of Donald & Co. and of M. J. Kelly had taken fire.

Immediately the firemen turned their attention to this portion of the conflagration. After a hard fight they got the fire here under control.

The buildings, however, were badly burned, and the goods were almost wholly destroyed.

Meanwhile the flames were making ravages on Bank street.

On Second street the roof of No. 29, occupied by Lewis S. Hall, dry goods, caught, and the building and stock were ruined.

The big instalment house of Philip J. Walsh, adjoining the latter on the south, was also badly damaged, his greatest loss being caused by water.

He places his damage alone at $25,000. The loss of this time is estimated at a million of dollars.

Mayor Filler and Director of Public Safety Stockley went to the scene and personally supervised the movements of the firemen and police.

A narrow escape from death was made by three men who were employed in Blankenburg's. They had become caught in the building while trying to effect their escape.

They managed to get on to the fire-escape from a fifth-story window. On reaching there they found that there were no ladders to the platform on which they were, and they were compelled to remain while the flames and particularly the smoke curled around them. One was about to jump when the Hayes ladder went up and the men managed to get off.

THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.) PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 19.—A tremendous conflagration broke out in the business centre of the city before 10 o'clock this morning. It is now raging furiously.

The flames were first discovered in the wholesale tailors' trimmings establishment of Rudolph Blankenburg, the well-known political reformer, No. 13 Bank street.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but an explosion followed immediately after the discovery of the flames.

The building was a solid six-story structure and extended from Bank to Strawberry street, two small but business thoroughfares between Chestnut and Market and Second and Third streets.

An instant after the explosion, which occurred in the basement, the whole building was a roaring mass of fire, extending to the roof and balling the firemen in their work.

Both streets are built up with large commercial houses, and each is stored with valuable goods.

About fifteen minutes after the breaking out of the fire the flames had spread to the opposite side of Strawberry street.

The big linen and white-goods houses of Donald & Co. and of M. J. Kelly had taken fire.

Immediately the firemen turned their attention to this portion of the conflagration. After a hard fight they got the fire here under control.

The buildings, however, were badly burned, and the goods were almost wholly destroyed.

Meanwhile the flames were making ravages on Bank street.

PHILADELPHIA'S BLAZE.

A Big Fire in Progress in the Quaker City.

Some Very Narrow Escapes from the Flames.

The Loss Will Probably Amount to a Million and May Exceed It.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.) PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 19.—A tremendous conflagration broke out in the business centre of the city before 10 o'clock this morning. It is now raging furiously.

The flames were first discovered in the wholesale tailors' trimmings establishment of Rudolph Blankenburg, the well-known political reformer, No. 13 Bank street.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but an explosion followed immediately after the discovery of the flames.

The building was a solid six-story structure and extended from Bank to Strawberry street, two small but business thoroughfares between Chestnut and Market and Second and Third streets.

An instant after the explosion, which occurred in the basement, the whole building was a roaring mass of fire, extending to the roof and balling the firemen in their work.

Both streets are built up with large commercial houses, and each is stored with valuable goods.

About fifteen minutes after the breaking out of the fire the flames had spread to the opposite side of Strawberry street.

The big linen and white-goods houses of Donald & Co. and of M. J. Kelly had taken fire.

Immediately the firemen turned their attention to this portion of the conflagration. After a hard fight they got the fire here under control.

The buildings, however, were badly burned, and the goods were almost wholly destroyed.

Meanwhile the flames were making ravages on Bank street.

On Second street the roof of No. 29, occupied by Lewis S. Hall, dry goods, caught, and the building and stock were ruined.

The big instalment house of Philip J. Walsh, adjoining the latter on the south, was also badly damaged, his greatest loss being caused by water.

He places his damage alone at $25,000. The loss of this time is estimated at a million of dollars.

Mayor Filler and Director of Public Safety Stockley went to the scene and personally supervised the movements of the firemen and police.

A narrow escape from death was made by three men who were employed in Blankenburg's. They had become caught in the building while trying to effect their escape.

They managed to get on to the fire-escape from a fifth-story window. On reaching there they found that there were no ladders to the platform on which they were, and they were compelled to remain while the flames and particularly the smoke curled around them. One was about to jump when the Hayes ladder went up and the men managed to get off.

UNCLE SAM INTERFERES.

AND BRINGS THE CONSERVA BACK TO A UNITED STATES PORT.

The Conserva, the steel-plated vessel which was seized last night off Gravesend, L. I., for an alleged violation of the United States neutrality laws, was brought up the bay and landed at the Atlantic dock, Brooklyn, at 11 o'clock this morning.

The seizure was made on complaint of the Marquis de Chambrun, counsel for the Haytian Government, who charged that the vessel was intended for use against the existing Government of Hayti, and that the libellers had good reason to believe that she then had arms and ammunition aboard intended for the use of the insurgents.

The Conserva, formerly known as the Madrid, cleared for San Juan Saturday. Minister Preston protested against allowing her to go, but Consul Julia, of the Dominican Republic, insisted that the Conserva was going to the defense of his country.

On Sunday morning the Conserva returned to Sandy Hook, and an EVENING WORLD reporter learned this morning that she had sprung a leak and that it was all the crew could do to keep her from filling.

After the vessel arrived at the dock this morning acting Capt. Crocker was taken up to United States Marshal Stoddard's office, and the hearing was subsequently set down for to-morrow.

The crew was much excited and declared they were entitled to full pay for the trip.

Gen. Courtenay and Stephen Charles Preston, both prominently identified with the Legation faction in Hayti, have been missing since Friday.

When young Preston's father, the Haytian Minister, was asked as to his son's whereabouts this morning he evaded the question, but when cornered he threw up his hands in a dramatic manner he said: "His country needs him, and my son has gone to fight in its cause."

DENMARK AMONG THE BROKERS.

The Prize Mule Visits the Menagerie at the Stock Exchange.

A very celebrated mule was added to the bulls and bears in the New York Stock Exchange menagerie for a few moments this afternoon.

The visiting animal was Denmark, won by Mr. J. C. Bucks at the St. Valentine's Market Fair in Fifth avenue.

RESTORED!

Tina Weiss Back in the Arms of Her Joyful Mother.

"THE EVENING WORLD" PROMISED IT.

Home Again After a Separation of Nearly a Year and a Half.

Here is a Confession of the Unjustness of the Children's Law.

And a Powerful Plea for the Amendment Offered by "The Evening World."

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.) PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 19.—A tremendous conflagration broke out in the business centre of the city before 10 o'clock this morning. It is now raging furiously.

The flames were first discovered in the wholesale tailors' trimmings establishment of Rudolph Blankenburg, the well-known political reformer, No. 13 Bank street.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but an explosion followed immediately after the discovery of the flames.

The building was a solid six-story structure and extended from Bank to Strawberry street, two small but business thoroughfares between Chestnut and Market and Second and Third streets.

An instant after the explosion, which occurred in the basement, the whole building was a roaring mass of fire, extending to the roof and balling the firemen in their work.

Both streets are built up with large commercial houses, and each is stored with valuable goods.

About fifteen minutes after the breaking out of the fire the flames had spread to the opposite side of Strawberry street.

The big linen and white-goods houses of Donald & Co. and of M. J. Kelly had taken fire.

Immediately the firemen turned their attention to this portion of the conflagration. After a hard fight they got the fire here under control.

The buildings, however, were badly burned, and the goods were almost wholly destroyed.

Meanwhile the flames were making ravages on Bank street.

On Second street the roof of No. 29, occupied by Lewis S. Hall, dry goods, caught, and the building and stock were ruined.

The big instalment house of Philip J. Walsh, adjoining the latter on the south, was also badly damaged, his greatest loss being caused by water.

He places his damage alone at $25,000. The loss of this time is estimated at a million of dollars.

Mayor Filler and Director of Public Safety Stockley went to the scene and personally supervised the movements of the firemen and police.

A narrow escape from death was made by three men who were employed in Blankenburg's. They had become caught in the building while trying to effect their escape.

They managed to get on to the fire-escape from a fifth-story window. On reaching there they found that there were no ladders to the platform on which they were, and they were compelled to remain while the flames and particularly the smoke curled around them. One was about to jump when the Hayes ladder went up and the men managed to get off.

THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.) PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 19.—A tremendous conflagration broke out in the business centre of the city before 10 o'clock this morning. It is now raging furiously.

The flames were first discovered in the wholesale tailors' trimmings establishment of Rudolph Blankenburg, the well-known political reformer, No. 13 Bank street.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but an explosion followed immediately after the discovery of the flames.

The building was a solid six-story structure and extended from Bank to Strawberry street, two small but business thoroughfares between Chestnut and Market and Second and Third streets.

An instant after the explosion, which occurred in the basement, the whole building was a roaring mass of fire, extending to the roof and balling the firemen in their work.

Both streets are built up with large commercial houses, and each is stored with valuable goods.

About fifteen minutes after the breaking out of the fire the flames had spread to the opposite side of Strawberry street.

The big linen and white-goods houses of Donald & Co. and of M. J. Kelly had taken fire.

Immediately the firemen turned their attention to this portion of the conflagration. After a hard fight they got the fire here under control.

The buildings, however, were badly burned, and the goods were almost wholly destroyed.

Meanwhile the flames were making ravages on Bank street.

HARTFORD'S HORROR.

More Bodies Taken from the Hotel's Ruins To-Day.